As indicated in our 29 May memorandum to you, SORS has now addressed the [] tasking problem and apparently solved it in only one session. It appears that the impact on processing and tasking will not be as serious as originally thought, and tentative approval was given to place [] on a routine basis as requested by NSA. Processing and reporting are to be accomplished in near real-time, with a goal of 2 hours from intercept to user receipt. We will keep you informed of any further developments, but the problem seems to be resolved to the satisfaction of all at present.
